

ABSTRACT

A framing system for adjustably connecting building components comprising an outer stud, an interior support member, and a connecting clip.